

Handout 2 – Fictional Decision Scenario Cards + Storyboard

Use fictional characters. For each scenario, generate at least three options.

Do not turn current class conflicts into scenarios.

Scenario	Three possible options	What could happen next / later?
A – A friend sends Kai a screenshot from a private group chat and says, “Forward this to everyone before they delete it.”	1. 2. 3.
B – Amira has two assignments due close together. A classmate offers to send a finished answer so she can submit it quickly.	1. 2. 3.
C – During a practical lesson, the group wants to skip a safety step because “we are running out of time”.	1. 2. 3.
D – Luis is angry after a disagreement and has typed a public comment about the other student. The post button is ready.	1. 2. 3.
E – A group is using an AI tool for a project. It produces a confident answer with no source. The group can submit now or verify it first.	1. 2. 3.
F – Sofia is invited to join an activity she is unsure about. Everyone else says, “Come on, decide now.”	1. 2. 3.
G – Noah is asked to lend a personal device/account to another student “just for five minutes”.	1. 2. 3.
H – A team must choose between a fast plan that leaves one member without a role and a slower plan that gives everyone a useful task.	1. 2. 3.

Storyboard extension:

draw three frames – DECISION → NEXT → LATER.

Add a question mark where the outcome is genuinely unknown.
